'Shop at Home'

Chamber starts county campaign

The Appomattox County Chamber of Commerce this week launches its "Shop In Appomattox" campaign, designed to illustrate how money spent in Appomattox County benefits the people who live in the county.

The campaign, which will run five weeks, will feature information published in the Times-Virginian relative to the role local businesses play in the economy of Appomattox County, and how the various components of the county benefit from tax revenue generated by businesses in the county.

Jack Evans, chairman of the Chamber's Education Committee, notes that the campaign is "intended to emphasize the importance of shopping at home, that everybody in the county benefits when you shop at home."

Evans, who runs a clothing store at Triangle Plaza Shopping Center, has expressed concern that the county is losing sales to shopping areas nearby, such as Lynchburg and Farmville.

"According to information gathered during the 1980 Census, less than half of the available money in Appomattox County is being spent in the county," Evans says. "The national average is about 80 percent," he adds. "I estimate that we could increase employment in the county by possibly as much as 20 percent if more of the available money was spent in the county," he concludes.

Lloyd Vaughan, president of the chamber, notes that the chamber feels "it is important to try and educate the people in our county how much it pays to shop at home."

Vaughan continues, noting that "we have an excellent selection of stores in the county, with many goods and services available, and people can get just about anything they need here in the county, so it really isn't necessary to go out of the area to shop."

In this week's paper, the chamber has published an advertisement outlining the ways in which local schools benefit from tax money generated by sales and other business taxes.

In weeks to come, other facts of the relationship between local economy and schools, police protection, road repair, and other aspects of the quality of life in Appomattox County will be examined in the chamber-sponsored advertisements.

The Times-Virginian will also examine the relationship between a healthy local economy and the quality of life in Appomattox County in weeks to come. The paper will run a series of articles on employment, tax revenues, and the status of the local economy as a whole during the next four weeks.

Grid contest extended

Millner wins contest

Willie Millner of Appomattox has been named winner in last week's Times-Virginian Football Contest.

Millner missed accurately predicting only one game in the contest. He will receive a check in the amount of $20 as first place prize.

Tied for second place, missing only two games in the contest, were Doris Bryant, Raymond Bryant, Teresa P. Mayberry, Carolyn Thompson, and Mark Scott, all of Appomattox.

Going to the tie-breaker for a winner, Doris Bryant was declared winner of second place as she was closer to the actual game scores. She will receive a check for $10 as second place winner.

Due to the many requests we have received, the Times-Virginian Football Contest will continue this week. Full details of rules and prizes can be found on an inside page of the issue of the paper.

Town votes to co-sponsor Railroad Festival in 1984

The Appomattox Town Council voted at their meeting Monday evening to co-sponsor the 1984 Historic Appomattox Railriad Festival. Appearing on behalf of the festival were Mrs. Dot Davidson and Mrs. Cindy Ranson, members of the festival board.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Andrusky of Lynchburg appeared before the board presenting a plan to construct a two-unit, one-bedroom single occupancy apartment for elderly tenants on Atwood Street. The facility will be 20 feet x 56 feet and will conform to the set back of 25 feet front and rear and 10 feet on either side in the variance. Council granted a conditional use permit for Andrusky to go ahead with the construction.

Ray Noble, council member, was elected to serve a two-year term on the Sewage Handling and Disposal Advisory Committee for the Department of Health.

Firemen's benefit is on

Mayor Ronald C. Spiggle has declared November Volunteer Firemen's Month. Representatives of the Appomattox Volunteer Firemen will be soliciting funds to honor the firemen with a dinner.

When a representative of the firemen contacts you, please give generously. These men give generously of their time and energy whenever they are needed with no compensation for their dedication, with the exception of a job well done.

Show your appreciation for these men; they have earned it! Paul Drinkard and James Ford are Co-Chairmen of the Fund Drive.

County to participate in new anti-crime program

By FRANCES ABBITT

At Monday's meeting the Appomattox County Board of Supervisors voted to have the county participate in the Community Diversion Incentive Program.

The program, implemented by the Piedmont Court Services Program, an institution created under the Joint Exercise of Powers legislation will serve the counties of Amelia, Appomattox, Buckingham, Charlotte, Cumberland, Halifax, Lunenburg, Nottoway, Powhatan and Prince Edward Couties.

The purpose of the program is to provide alternatives to incarceration as a resource to the courts of the Tenth Judicial Circuit and a portion of the Eleventh Judicial Circuit.

"It's got to be a good thing," said Appomattox County Board of Supervisors Attorney Sam Kerr. "It won't be a way around paying for a crime committed. The plan calls for a guilty person to pay for his or her crime and at the same time work and make restitution for any loss involved in the crime. The program has been successful in the counties that have adopted it," Kerr added.

In some instances the parties will live at home with their families where they have families), continue with their jobs and be under constant supervision with activities monitored 24 hours a day. If unemployed, work will be assigned, possibly community jobs.

Only those guilty of non-violent crimes will be permitted to participate in this program and the judge will have final say as to the participation of an individual.

It is a self-supporting program and if it doesn't work well, we can get out of it," commented Appomattox County Sherrif Gene Richardson.

In other business Vic Bosiger and Jimmy Foster with the Appomattox Cable TV appeared before the board with an update on progress of the cable television work in Appomattox.

Work is being completed on the hanging of cable in Walton Place, Falling River Acres, Church Street and Lee Grant Extension. As soon as installation is complete, in approximately two weeks, service will be available.

I did not check on pumpkins, but frost was everywhere else Monday morning, my writing day. Thirty-fifth birthday for England's Prince Charles. Football fans limp after a heavy week-end menu. Wow, Univ. of Virginia defeated traditional opponent, Univ. of North Carolina. Ralph Sampson brought lustre to U. Va. basketball, now the Cavaliers are winning in other sports as well.

* * * *

The Fourth Annual Turkey Trot Five, a race sponsored in Lynchburg was held Saturday and won by Richard Ferguson, of Appomattox. Richard must have a great collection of trophies, for he is a consistent winner and Appomattox is proud of him.

I clipped enrollment figures for some of our ACHS athletic opponents. Brookville has 1,101 students, Rustburg 819, Altavista 796 and William Campbell 576.

Last week's elections brought interesting results in Virginia. Voter turnout broke no records in Appomattox, but where there were heavily contested races the count was higher. Best wishes to the winners and thanks to the losers for making democracy work. Early in my lifetime women won the right to vote, but were slow to do so. Then they began offering for office and gradually the number of women officers has increased. Today their vote can decide elections. Note that Kentucky has elected its first woman governor.

Christmas shopping has begun. Not for me, because I do not do any. But the spirit is ready to take over. Will Appomattox have a Santa Claus this year?

* * * *

The Nov. 3 issue of The Religious Herald featured on its front cover new words for an old favorite hymn("God's Word For All Earth's People" to the tune of "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus". Interest in church music peaks in the Christmas season. Years ago a young Philadelphia pastor, Phillips Brooks, went to Palestine, saw the hills by night and was stirred to write "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Lewis Redner set it to music and it is a favorite carol. Back in 1850 a Unitarian minister from Massachusetts wrote a poem and it was set to music by Richard Willis and thus we have another favorite, "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear."

* * * *

Longfellow contributed, too. His son was wounded in the Civil War and he was moved to write of hope for peace on earth and good will to men. J.B. Calkin music for his words and the result: "I Heard The Bells On Christmas Day." An Episcopal rector at Williamsburg, Penn., composed "We, Three Kings of Orient Are." And so it goes. Precious hymns. As we prepare for another Christmas, may we focus our minds on its spiritual values and significance.

Gee, I am in the mood to see yet another of the famous Macy's Christmas Parade down Broadway Thanksgiving Day.

Thanks for reading and seeya around.
